

I find it unbelievable that in this day and age anybody can reasonably argue against more competition in the radio industry. I hadn't even turned on my radio for a year due to the weak programming, overabundant ads, and overall lack of variety on AM/FM radio.

If the FCC is truly seeking competition in broadcasting, any attempt by the NAB to stifle XM's growth should be roundly rejected. Give us more choice, not less.